OLNEY HIGH SCHOOL

JUNE

1950

June 1950 — the mid-century. It is impossible to sum up the astounding, incredible years 1900-1950, but it is even harder to predict what the next fifty years will hold.

In our yearbook, we, the graduates of June 1950, shall try to provide a forward and backward look at our times—a story of how the present grew out of the past, and how the future is growing out of the present.

Our years at Olney prepared us for the task which lies ahead, and we enter the future on a note of hope. We are the giants of the twentieth century — the statesmen, the businessmen, the great American public. The fate of the world—our fate—is in our hands. That is the century's challenge to us!

We are on the threshold of the second half of the century—the gateway to a new life. We must mold the destinies of tomorrow.

We think of the achievements the past years have brought, finding in them not only a cause for pride in our heritage, but faith and confidence in a golden future for us.

MRS. SCANLAN

DEDICATION

In appreciation and gratitude for all they have done for us, we, the class of June '50, dedicate our yearbook to our sponsors, Mrs. Scanlan and Mr. Marhefka. They have given freely and cheerfully of their time and energy in order to make our class a better one.

Mrs. Scanlan, with her warm understanding of our needs, has given us help when we were troubled. Mr.

MR. MARHEFKA

TO OUR SPONSORS

Marhefka has always been ready for any new scheme we might devise.

No class could have asked for two more wonderful sponsors. Their untiring efforts and expert supervision have made our class a whole unit instead of many scattered sections. They molded and shaped our unit into a class with spirit and ingenuity. They have been a source of constant inspiration to us, and it is to them this yearbook stands as a token of our friendship and devotion.

ADMINISTRATION

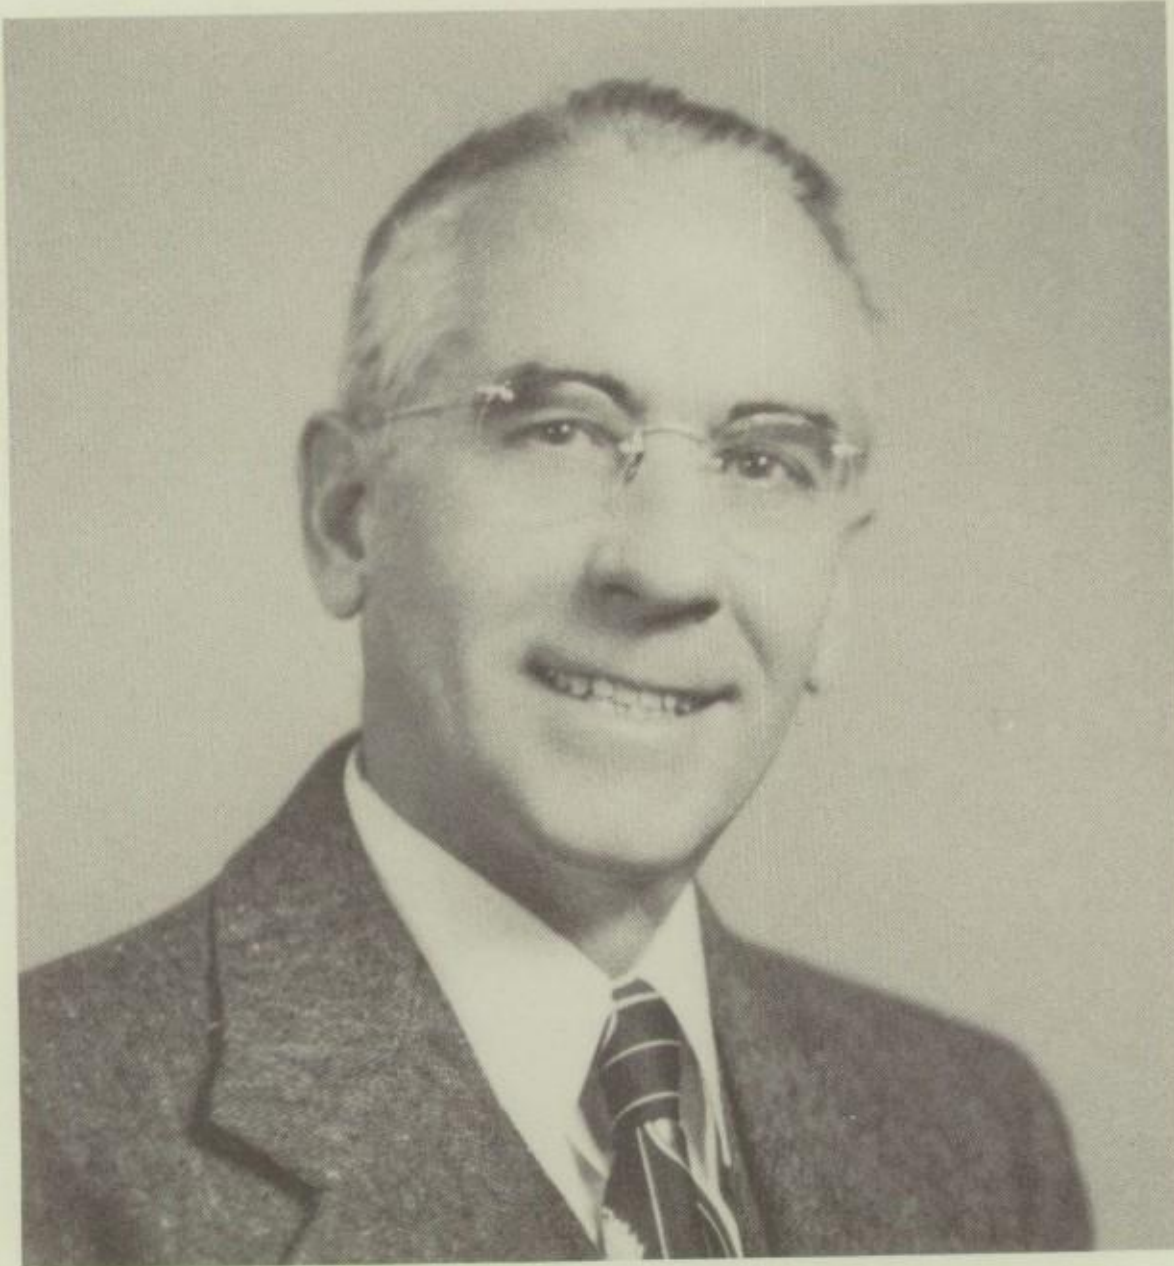

During the past fifty years, the world has known many great men, each a leader in his own field—Roosevelt and Wilson, two great statesmen. Claire Boothe Luce, a woman of prominence in the political world; Einstein, a genius of the Modern Age; Madame Curie, discoverer of radium; Pershing and Eisenhower, the leaders of our Armies in the last two wars; Booker T. Washington and Horace Mann, men who made trends in the field of education. Thus the world recognizes its great.

Their advance to achieve their goal of a better world has been a long and difficult path. We, too, travel a road, but one less arduous and cemented by the help and encouragement of our teacher.

In these pages of our yearbook we, the class of June '50, would like to recognize our leaders: the principal, the teachers, and the counsellors; all the people who have guided our way through high school. For the past few years these have been the great and important in our lives. We appreciate a wonderful faculty, whose dedication and devotion will enable us to master successfully whatever the future holds.

OUR PRINCIPAL

The American mood of 1900 was one of individual self-reliance and frugality. The frontier had disappeared but the pioneer spirit of virile creativeness lingered on. Freedom to think, to act, to contrive his own security was the prevailing impulse of American youth.

Like old furniture, horse-cars and celluloid collars, initiative in 1950 seems to have worn out; the need to struggle has been reduced by a thousand inventions. Individual enterprise has shifted to mass effort, and independence seems losing out to social dependency.

As you receive congratulations at graduation, and thrust open the gateway to a new life, I hope your path ahead will point upward, and require sturdy climbing. Let pride in your heritage bring resolution to find again that declining pioneer impulse of the past five decades, that your life may be one of creative usefulness to all.

Good luck, and God bless you.

James A. Haines

ASSISTANTS TO THE PRINCIPAL

In this, our yearbook, we, the Class of June 1950, would like to express our appreciation to Mrs. Fink and Dr. Greenwood for the understanding they have extended to us. Their sincerity, and invaluable advice have often brought us to the solution of a problem. To their encouragement and sensible suggestion we owe many of the good times we have had at Olney. Dr. Greenwood's humour, Mrs. Fink's smile and genial "hello" have made each morning more pleasant and furnished the good start each day.

We thank these two friends and are well aware of the part they played in preparing us for the years to come.

ALUMNI

MR. MATHUES

MR. WEILER

It gives me great pleasure to take this opportunity to welcome you as graduates of this school to membership in the Olney High School Alumni Association. Today you are entering into a new era of your life where your ambitions for the future meet with the incongruous way of the world. We of the Alumni wish you success as you take your place as citizens of this world and may the best of luck be with you always.

During your high school career you have formed many friendships and memories of good times in class rooms, dances, and senior class activities. These people and events will soon fade from memory if you allow them to do so. Your Alumni Association has prepared to promote and further the activities of the students out of school, as well as those in the school. These activities will enable you to form new friendships and recall those memories of old as long as you stay active in the Alumni Association.

Sincerely yours,

HAROLD W. MATHUES

We of the graduating class of June, 1950, wish to acknowledge with deep gratitude the fine work of the Big Four Fathers. The group, which is made up of citizens of Olney and the adjoining communities, assists in many matters which are of great importance to our school.

This association, founded in 1925 by Hubert C. Reimel, has maintained close contact with parents, school, and faculty. Through the Big Four, many of Olney's ideals have been reached.

We sincerely appreciate the untiring efforts of the leaders and members, and the beneficial work which they have done and are continuing to do.

The Mothers' Discussion Group is composed of the parents of Olney High School students and members of the community who are interested in the promotion of closer relations between the school and the home. The organization, which has aided the Honor Society Scholarship Fund, the Band and the A Cappella Choir by donations of money, is one of the most helpful in our community and school. Through the faithful labors of this fine group an indispensable link between the home and school has been created.

We, the class of June, 1950, wish to thank the leaders and members of the Mothers' Discussion Group for the beneficial work they have done for us, our school, and our community.

CLUBS

As we, the class of June, 1950, stand at the halfway mark of the 20th century, we realize that one phase of our school life, the extra-curricular activities, has not only given us pleasant memories to look back over, but also has prepared us for many situations we will have to meet in the future.

The many clubs and groups which we joined certainly are now a part of the past. As we remember the years before 1950, we will recall how we came in contact with new people, shared experiences, and worked together harmoniously in our extra-curricular activities. In the Fellowship Club and the International Relations Club we discussed the problems confronting us as citizens of the world and learned what we could do to change conditions. Our literary endeavors were represented in the "Highlights" and the "Palladium". Will we ever forget how the staff of the "Highlights" provided the latest news of the school, alumni, community and world?

Our Debating Team, as always, distinguished itself, both in the school and in inter-school competition. We will always remember the wonderful entertainment the A Cappella Choir and Orchestra provided for us. Nor will we ever be able to repay the Trojanettes and Trojanaires, the Library, the Student Staff, and the Lunchroom monitors, for the work they did cheerfully and willingly.

The clubs are certainly now memories, but it would be impossible to say that they are only memories for us. We will in the second half of the 20th century, often be reminded that they gave each individual a chance for self-expression. Certainly every club, whether it was a service club, a social club, a career club, or a club which discussed community and world problems in some way prepared us for the future. After 1950 we will often look back and treasure our memories of our extra-curricular activities, and we will always be grateful for the fact that Olney offered us so many opportunities to prepare ourselves for the years following 1950.

The fine spirit, real journalistic ability, and hard work of the Highlights staff are known to us all.

Room 231 is the center of the Highlights activities, and there we may find Marilyn Brodsky, Joan Coleman, Anne Cohen, Louis Goldfield, Marcia Kaplan, and Barbara Polss, the graduating members of the staff. There we also find Mr. Hurowitz, who works side by side with the students and suffers with them through late deadlines, negligent reporters, and Columbia Press Conferences.

The feverish activity that goes on throughout the week finally comes to a climax every other Monday and results in an issue of the Olney Highlights, a paper that is truly "by the students, of the students, and for the students."

SPORTS

Athletics are a major part of the Americana. We have some of the greatest athletes of all times on our honor roll. Babe Ruth, Jim Thorpe, Jack Dempsey, Babe Didrikson, Joe Louis, Eleanor Holm, Joe DiMaggio, and Bill Tilden are just some of the sportsmen that the world has watched and applauded. The rules have changed and the players have come and gone, but one idea never changes—the will to win. This is the spirit that changed Ben Hogan from a hopeless cripple to the giant that broke his own record in the Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament of 1950.

More and more, America is taking an outstanding position in gaining new honors at the Olympics. In school life likewise, the idea of a "sound mind in a sound body" is becoming more important. Better than winning is the idea of fair play. It is this idea which makes a team great, rather than its victories.

We, at Olney, are filled with that spirit. Our grandstands are the fullest and our cheers the loudest; our enthusiasm the greatest and our teams the "fightingest". Olney has had this fervor for winning since the school first opened, and we'll continue to have it as long as there is such a thing as sports.

Basketball Team

Capacity crowds filled our gym to see and cheer our basketball team. The boys never stopped moving for a second and they kept the games fast and thrill-packed. Although we didn't always win, the team fought on till the end. The excellent floor game of Ace Dezube and Shel Saffren, the fight of Arnold Feldman and Jay Fenster under the basket, and the all around great ball-handling of Norm Knopman fascinated us in every game. The team's sweetest victory was at Frankford where we defeated the Pioneers 64 to 57 in an overtime period. Many thanks to Coach Spielburg for his patient understanding.

Football Team

The spirit of the team and of the loyal Olney rooters is something that we'll never forget. Despite the dearth in victories, the team provided many thrills during the season. Long after we've forgotten the final scores, we'll remember the hoarse sound of our voices after an afternoon of cheering, the camaraderie on a crowded bus returning from an "away" game, and the wonderful sportsmanship of Jack Bloomberg, Bernard Flick, Edward Graves, Joseph Gummel, John Quinn, Robert Scowcroft, and Michael Shupp.

No other school in the city can boast the record that these girls have compiled. With eight games on their schedule, the team won every game to hold the Public High Championship. There were two main factors which contributed to the success of the team. One was the superlative coaching of Miss Catherine McPeak. The second factor was the members of the team. Outstanding for their razzle dazzle shooting were Dot Conley, Lill Haas, and Marge Kline. The guarding was superbly done by Wacker, Peterson, Coe and Ganther. In the terms ahead these girls are sure to carry on with their high level championship play. The class of June, 1950, wishes them luck.

Olney High School has always been known to produce outstanding hockey teams, and last year's team was no exception. These gals brought another championship home to Olney. Under the excellent coaching of Mrs. Anna Liese, the team won all of its games. As proof of the team's superiority, Olney placed four girls on the All-Public Hockey team. They were Haas, Kline, Foley, and Wilson. Here's hoping the team will bring home another championship next year.

Though our entire four years at Olney have prepared us for this turning point, this decisive period of our lives, it will be the last, the senior year, that we will best remember. It was in this year that our efforts were culminated, that we began to survey our gains and determine their use.

Though all the years were an experience in social relationship, it was in the senior year that we began to appreciate our friendships. It was the year when we finally knew everyone, when our friends numbered a whole class instead of a whole club. It was the year we realized we had some great classmates.

It was the time, too, when we became friends with our teachers—teachers whom we had not known, had never recognized, suddenly became our guardian angels.

And it was the year, most of all, of our prom, our pins, our trip, our graduation; the year of all those memos of the senior.

MR. DEBUS

For many years Olney High School has been fortunate in having Mr. Eugene Debus as a sincere friend and teacher. Olney has profited by his efforts as School Treasurer, S. A. Sponsor, member of the Physical Education Department, Co-ordinator, and coach of the Baseball Team. Many students have turned to him for advice and counsel, and have been rewarded by his guidance and friendship. A cheerful smile, a pat on the back, a reassuring word—these were typical of Mr. Debus.

This past term, he left Olney to take over his new duties as Head of the Physical Education Department at the Benjamin Franklin High School. Although we are glad to see him attain this good fortune, we cannot help but feel that we have lost a friend worthy of our greatest admiration, respect, and gratitude. To Mr. Debus, Olney gives a sincere "thanks."

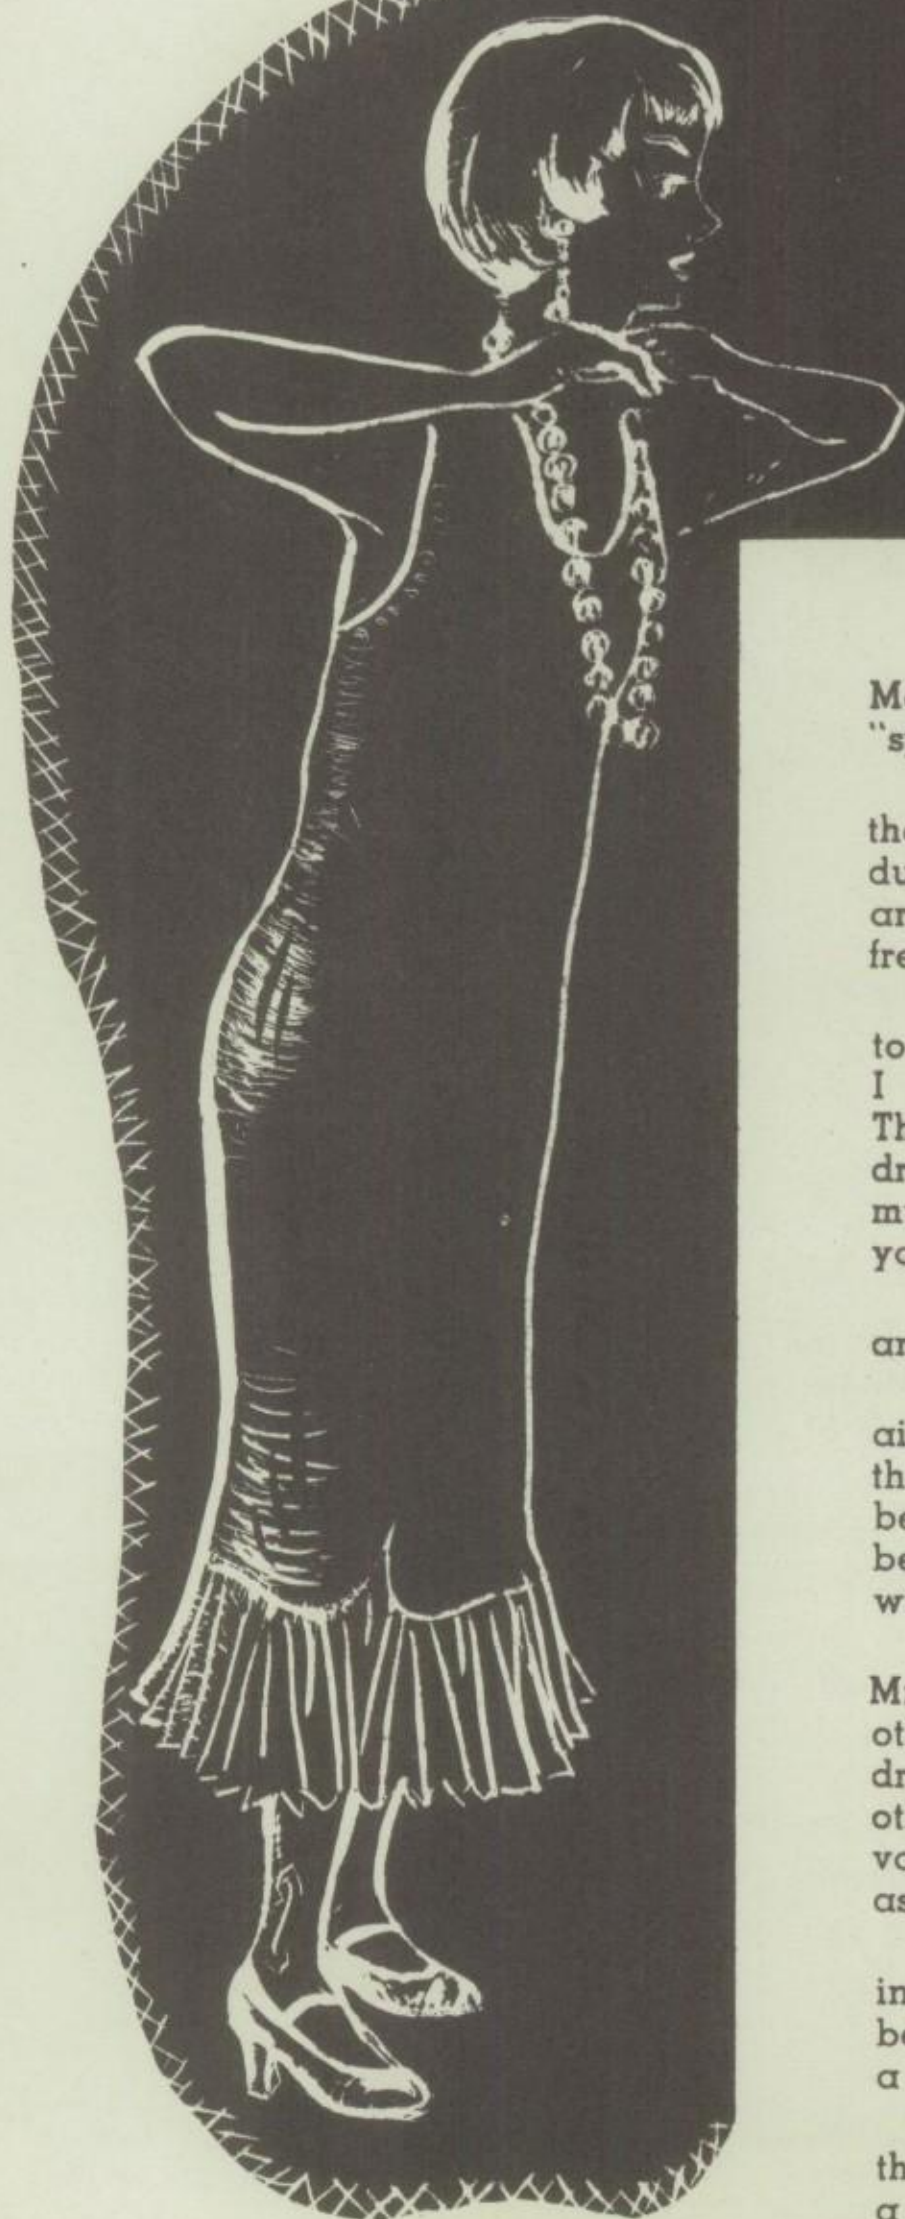

MISS PHILLIPS

There have been few teachers whom we, during our stay at Olney, have respected more than Miss Phillips. She was not only our teacher and our grade counsellor, but what is more important, a good friend to all her students and to those who found it necessary to seek her helpful advice. Though encumbered with numerous duties and obligations, she was never too busy for a friendly "hello" as she passed through the halls. We know that we have caused her continual worry, especially in the first days of school, with all our roster troubles and problems concerning our subjects. But it is evident that she has not thought of us as bothers, because her friendly manner and willingness to help have proved otherwise.

Therefore, we offer our deepest thanks to Miss Phillips for all that she has done to make our years at Olney happy ones.

OUR PROM

I don't think that I shall ever forget my prom. Memories of shopping, of searching, and of finding that "special" gown will always be within recall.

Perhaps the best part of all, as I think back, was the air of expectancy that prevailed in the senior class during the week of January 20. Then Friday finally arrived; when the two-thirty bell rang, at last, I was freed from the confines of my solid geometry class.

Reaching home in a matter of minutes (it usually took longer because of the stores that line the way), I began the procedure necessary to the occasion. Throughout the afternoon and early evening, I bathed, dressed, applied makeup, removed makeup, combed my hair, dabbed on perfume, and draped myself in yards of fluffy, white tulle.

Still primping and fussing, I peered into the mirror and grinned at the new face that appeared there.

Then I heard the door-bell ring, and assuming an air of pseudo-sophistication, I descended the stairs—there to greet the "boyfriend." Looking back, I remember he complimented me, and I can see again the beautiful orchid, now lying yellow and pressed along with other such treasures.

When we reached the prom, we were greeted by Mr. Marhefka and Mrs. Scanlan. There were endless other introductions, and then we were dancing to the dreamy music. The "boyfriend" and I made plans with other couples, and after the prom, we went to the various clubs in the city. Here we drank cokes with as much gusto as we would have drunk a cocktail.

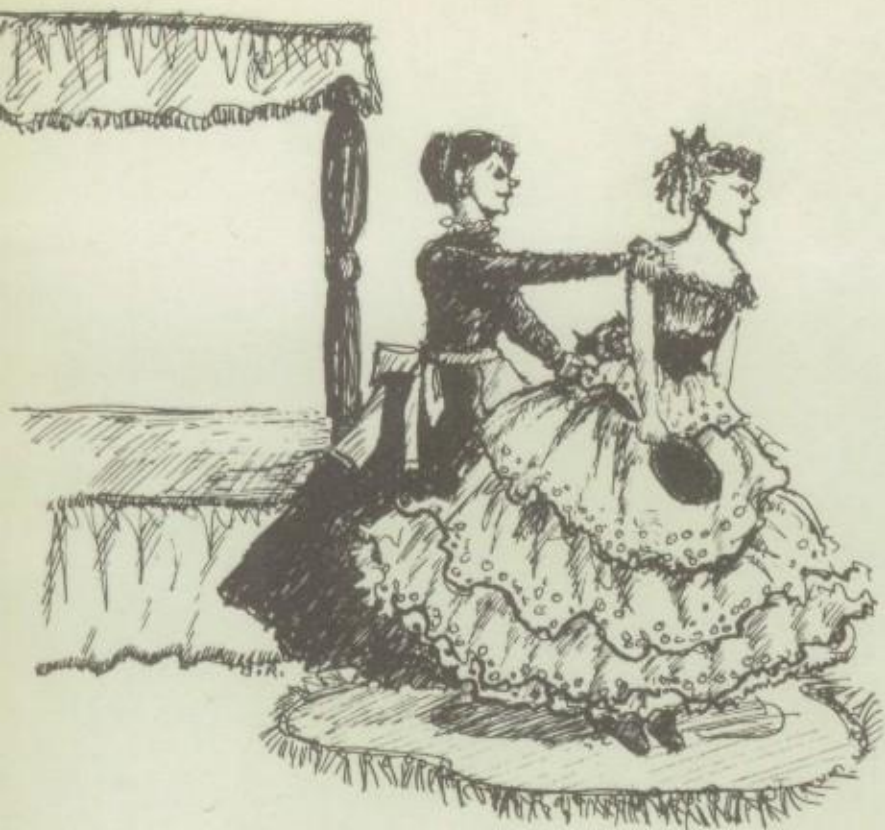

Coming out of the club, we saw that it was snowing. Gallantly, the "Boyfriend" held up my skirt from behind as we ran back to the car. (I vaguely recall a run in my good nylons, too.)

At last, very late, we reached home. Standing on the doorstep, the "Boyfriend" and I parted. (I smile a little now, remembering it.) Then I went upstairs to bed and shut my eyes at the dawn coming in through the window . . . It was a wonderful Prom.
